"The Grace EPs by legendary singer-songwriter Jeff Buckley, is a 19-track, five x EP box set, comprising the following EPs: 'Peyote Radio Theatre' [July 1994], 'Last Goodbye' [January 1995], 'So Real' [June 1995], 'Live From The Bataclan' [October 1995] and 'The Grace EP' [February 1996]. This unique package contains all five twelve inch vinyl records each in their own full colour jacket, a double sided full colour insert with extensive liner notes, all carefully packed in a heavyweight leather laminate textured 15mm-spined outer sleeve. The five discs that make up the Grace EPs box-set are a collection of live performances, B-sides and studio versions from songs that originally appeared on Buckley's ""Grace"" album. 'Peyote Radio Theatre' and 'So Real' were promotional-only releases that weren't commercially available. The others are rare imports: 'Last Goodbye' came out in Japan, 'Live from the Bataclan' in France and 'The Grace EP' in Australia. This EP set features ""Last Goodbye"", ""Grace"", ""So Real"" and two amazing live versions of his classic hits ""Hallelujah"" & ""Mojo Pin"". The Grace EPs also features a whopping 12-minute version of Van Morrison's ""The Way Young Lovers Do,"" a medley of ""Je N'En Connais Pas la Fin/Hymne A l'Amour,"" Hank Williams's ""Lost Highway,"" and a 14-minute take on Alex Chilton's ""Kanga-Roo."" Finally there is a bonus track added to the The Grace EP; ""Tongue,"" a spooky ambient 11-minute studio instrumental."
